

Homeschooling in Brazil

Influenced by the American culture, homeschooling has reached Brazil. Still very little represented, it is a battle that just started and a rising national debate.

What is Homeschooling?

According to the Decree-Law no. 553/80 homeschooling is “the one taught in the student's residential home by a relative or by a person whom he dwells”. This practice is opposite to any kind of institutional educational, such as public, private or cooperative school; and to private instruction, which is individually taught by a graduate teacher out of an educational institution.
