malalafund For many indigenous girls in Brazil, the journey to school is almost longer than the school day itself — and facing discrimination makes it even harder to stay in school. Today Malala met girls from the Tupinambá and Pataxó tribes and discussed what life is like for girls in their communities. 📷: @luisadorr

cnn Nestled in the forested hills of central #Vietnam, two giant concrete hands emerge from the trees, holding up a glimmering golden bridge. The Cau Vang is a 150-meter long pedestrian footbridge near the coastal city of Da Nang -- and despite only opening recently, it's already attracting crowds of selfie-taking visitors.
