

[James Corden] Now,

00:02

Kunal,

00:04

you have a book out here: 'Yes, My Accent Is Real'.

00:07

[applause] Ah... But you are adamant that this is not

00:12

a memoir, right?

00:15

[Kunal Nayyar] Yeah, I'm only 34. It's not a memoir. I mean...

00:23

[James Corden] So what exactly is it?

00:24

[Kunal] Ah... It's just a bunch of stories from growing up in India and coming to America and, like, being...

00:27

You know, my journey is crazy. I was born in London, I...

00:28

[James Corden] I'm gonna be honest, Kunal. It sounds like a memoir [laughs] [Brit Marling] It does.

00:38

[Kunal Nayyar] Yeah, I know. Yeah, but I'm not like, I... [James Corden] It's just a bunch of stories about my life to this point. [laughs] [Kunal Nayyar] Yeah, exactly. I have to be like, I have to be like, hmm, I have to be like a Kardashian to write a memoir [laughs].

00:45

[James Corden] But you talk in this book of your extreme dislike of feet. [Kunal Nayyar] Yeah. Yes, you heard it.

00:49

[James Corden] What is it about feet that you don't like? [Kunal Nayyar] I...

00:50

[James Corden] You're really getting him, you're really getting him... [Kunal Nayyar] No, that's OK. [Brit Marling] Does that make you uncomfortable?

00:53

[Kunal Nayyar] Very. [laughs]

00:55

[James Corden] Talk to me about your dislike of feet.

00:58

[Kunal Nayyar] I don't know, I've always... I've... You know, I used to have this... I think it started, like, in seventh or eighth class.

01:04

I used to have this math tutor who would come and take his shoes off and he had really junkie feet and, like, teach me maths which I was... You know, I didn't like anyway and then... I think it started from there.

01:09

And what happens is now in Los Angeles women are wearing

01:13

yoga pants, like, yoga clothing, Lululemon yoga clothes for dinner. [laughs]
[James Corden] Yes. [Kunal Nayyar] So, like, you're sitting down, you're having a nice meal and there's, like, a woman whose, like, flip-flops are on the floor and she's, like, playing with her feet, eating a bowl of pasta... And talking about, like, 'namaste,

01:21

01:26

I love life'... Put on that shoes! [laughs]

01:30

[James Corden] Haha! What, ah... But do you have good feet? Are your feet good?

01:33

[Kunal Nayyar] I... You will never know.
